The Association of State and Provincial Psychology Boards (ASPPB), the association of all psychology licensing boards in the United States and Canada, has authorized a new job task analysis study. The study will be used to update the psychology licensing examination (Examination for Professional Practice in Psychology - EPPP) and will inform the possible development of a skills-based examination for licensure. We are writing to ask for your help in identifying psychologists for membership on a Job Task Analysis Task Force (JTATF).

We are seeking early career and more-experienced licensed/registered psychologists representing work, demographic, and professional diversity.

These psychologists may be practitioners and/or licensed academics, researchers, and consultants who are knowledgeable about the practice of the profession. We are seeking individuals with knowledge and experience in one or more of the following areas:

Biological Basis of Behavior

Cognitive–Affective Basis of Behavior

Social and Multicultural Basis of Behavior

Growth and Lifespan Development

Assessment and Diagnosis

Treatment, Intervention, and Prevention

Research Methods and Statistics

Ethical/Legal/Professional Issues

Consultation

Interdisciplinary Practice

Diversity

ASPPB will use this study to update the EPPP domains, and to develop an examination to assess a psychology candidate's professional skills at the point of licensure.

There will be two required meetings of the JTATF. In preparation for each meeting, participants will be asked to review relevant literature that will be provided by ASPPB. Members will be reimbursed for travel expenses. During the first meeting of the JTATF, members will participate in developing a questionnaire for use in surveying licensed psychologists in Canada and the United States. At the second meeting, JTATF members will review the results of the survey. The goal of this review is to update the EPPP content areas, update the associated knowledge base, and validate the ASPPB competency model that underlies professional practice.

- Meeting 1: May 19-20, 2016 Peachtree City, Georgia
- Meeting 2: September 29-30, 2016 Montreal, Quebec

Interested psychologists should complete the online application form and submit an up-to-date CV no later than February 1, 2016. Click the following link to access the application form. If the link does not work, copy it and paste it into the address bar of your Web browser.
